

Chronological split — the model is never trained on data that comes after its test set

